A "CATCHY" SIGN.

He Wanted Women's Trade, So He Advertised Exclusively Men's Goods.
The junior partner stood out on the sidewalk and looked up at the building.
"Yes, he is right," he said at last.
"Who is right?" asked the senior partner, who had been watching the junior from the doorway.
"The man who has just left after buying a necktie and a pair of suspenders," replied the junior, making a critical survey of the front of the building.
"What did he say?" inquired the senior.
The junior seemed to be satisfied with the result of his investigations and returned to the store.
"He said in a casual sort of way," he explained, "that we appeared to be behind the times."
"Nonsense!" interrupted the senior angrily. "There isn't a store in our line in the city that begins to carry as complete a stock of up to date goods as we do."
"So I told him," said the junior, "but he said that was a minor consideration at the present time, and that we might carry the best and most complete stock in the world and still not do much of a business if we were old foggy in our methods."
"But we're not," protested the senior.
"That's what I told him," answered the junior, "but he only laughed and said: 'Go out and look at your sign. It's actually driving away the best trade of modern times.' Then he called attention to the fact that our sign reads, 'Men's Furnishing Goods,' although it's a well known fact that women now buy more than half of all that's sold in that line. Consequently, he said, our sign practically drove away more than half the trade that we—"
"Nonsense!" interrupted the senior. "He doesn't know the first little thing about the 'new woman.' We're getting our share of her trade now, but if we took that word off our sign she wouldn't buy a thing from us. Her ambition is to make sure that she is getting something that pertains to man."—Philadelphia Press.

Lime Orchards.

The finest lime tree gardens in the world are on the little island of Montserrat, a British colony. The orchards with their 150,000 trees laden with bright fruit are as gorgeous as an orange orchard. The lime leaf is so aromatic that in the West Indies it is used to perfume the water in finger bowls.

Muffs were adopted by women after these articles had been invented for the use of doctors, to keep their fingers warm and soft while going from the house of one patient to that of another.

An Unaccountable Omission.

A tall, dark complexioned man, with a four days' growth of beard on his chin, hurrying along Dearborn street the other day, suddenly halted and addressed a sleek, well fed personage whom he encountered at a crossing.

"Bugsby," he said, "would it be convenient for you to pay that $6 that you borrowed of me about 1 1/2 years ago?"

"I'm deuced hard up this morning, Jennings," responded the other, "but I'll pay you just as soon as I can. I haven't a cent."

"And you ought to have it, Jennings. I'll see that you don't go without it much longer. Good morning!"

"Good morning!"

Fifteen minutes later the tall, dark complexioned man happened to pass a saloon. Looking in at the open door, he saw Bugsby in the act of treating a friend. He saw Bugsby take a green-back from his pocket and toss it on the counter. Then he stepped inside.

"Bugsby," he said, tapping him on the shoulder, "did anybody ever tell you that you were a mean, sneaking, lying, miserable, dirty, contemptible, crawling, pusillanimous, low down, thieving, good for nothing, two for a cent dead beat?"

"Why, no, Jennings," replied the sleek, well fed personage, somewhat embarrassed. "I don't think anybody ever did."

"Well, I'm surprised!" retorted the tall man, turning on his heel and striding out into the open air again. —Chicago Tribune.

MARVELOUS RESULTS.

From a letter written by Rev. J. Gunderman, of Dimondale, Mich.: "We are permitted to make this extract: 'I have no hesitation in recommending Dr. King's New Discovery, as the results were almost marvelous in the case of my wife. While I was pastor of the Baptist Church at Rives Junction she was brought down with pneumonia succeeding the La Grippe. Terrible paroxysms of coughing would last hours with little interruption and it seemed as if she would not survive them. A friend recommended Dr. King's New Discovery; it was quick in its work and highly satisfactory in results. Trial bottles free at Massie's Pharmacy, 109 Jefferson street, Roanoke. Regular sizes 50c. and $1.00.'

LUCK IN MINING.

The Boy's Illness Stood in the Way of a Big Fortune.

"I could have owned half of the Enterprise mine at Rico for $200 if a telegram from Denver had not announced the decision of the doctors to use the knife on my baby boy for hernia. I lost more than $1,000,000, but I stopped the knife, and my boy is healthy and rugged."

These were the words of a gentleman seated with a group of prospectors a few evenings ago, which led up to a number of stories relating to similar incidents.
"I knew a man more fortunate than myself, however, who grasped his opportunity," continued the speaker. "Dave Brown of Aspen gave a prospector $75 worth of lumber for one-fourth of the Aspen mine. Brown was then a stock clerk. He is now a millionaire banker and operator."
"It's not always management that secures a fortune," ventured another of the group. "It was luck, pure and simple, that made Dick Swickheimer a millionaire. He knew nothing about mining, but a miner told him to sink, and he did sink. He ran out of money several times, but others, who were interested in learning what greater depths he would encounter on Dolores mountain, loaned various sums, and at last a lucky lottery ticket drew $4,000, and this money reached the ore in the Enterprise mine."

"Yes, luck had a great deal to do with it," said the third speaker. "Several people in Durango had an opportunity a few years ago to get into the Columbus mine in La Platte for a few dollars when the Dutchman who located it owned it. I knew one Durango man who had a good chance to buy the mine for less than $500, the price received, who had spent twice as much in trying to find something like the Columbus."

"Chances like those are often overlooked in Durango," said another of the group. "There was a little fellow down there from McQuincy a couple of years ago showing some good looking ore from a claim, which he offered to trade a quarter of for a rifle. He went to the gun store and all over town trying to trade for a rifle, and the kind of gun he wanted was selling in secondhand stores for $5 or $6, but the little fellow couldn't get a rifle. I saw the property last fall that he offered to trade and saw some of the ore roasted in a blacksmith's forge. Gold boiled out of it very freely, and I doubt if all the guns in San Juan county would buy a quarter interest in that property now."—Durango Democrat.
